Energy Bill...

Adani New Industries plans to invest over $50 billion (₹3.9 trillion) over the next 10 years in green hydrogen and the associated ecosystems and will develop a green hydrogen production capacity of 1 million tonne per annum before 2030. RIL, which has forayed into the green energy and green fuel business last year, had announced earlier it would bring down the cost of green hydrogen to $1 per kilogram in under a decade. To incentivise the private sector for emission reduction, the Centre also plans to bring in a legal framework for the country's first-ever carbon trading market. Globally, the carbon credit market collapsed in 2012 as prices plummeted, failing to revive again. Also, the developed nations stopped financing the 'clean development mechanism' under which the market was introduced. The Centre in its proposal said a legal framework for a carbon market was needed to meet the objective of "incentivising actions for emission reduction, leading to increased investments in clean energy and energy efficiency areas by the private sector". A carbon credit trading scheme for reduction of carbon emissions will be launched and certificates issued to those who meet their emission targets. These certificates can then be traded with those unable to meet their emission targets. The Bill has also amended the penalty provisions to include more sectors. While the penalty remains the same for those defaulting on energy conservation and auditing, automobiles have been added to the list. Any automobile manufacturer who fails to comply with fuel consumption norms will be liable to pay additional penalty per unit of vehicles sold in the corresponding year. The Bill has laid down a penalty of ₹25,000 per vehicle for non-compliance of norms up to 0.2 litres per 100 kilometre (km); ₹50,000 per vehicle for non-compliance of norms above 0.2 litres per 100 km. Any default over and above this will be penalised ₹10 lakh per vehicle. Cabinet approves climate targets under updated NDC India had last submitted its NDC in 2016. It will now be updated to meet the target announced by Prime Minister Narendra Modi at the 26th session of the Conference of the Parties (COP26) in Glasgow in 2021. He had announced India would be a net-zero carbon economy by 2070. To meet this target, India will reduce emission intensity of its gross domestic production by 45 per cent by 2030, from the 2005 levels, and achieve about 50 per cent of cumulative electric power-installed capacity from non-fossil fuel-based energy resources by 2030.

counted for," the court said. Disagreeing with the Centre, Senior Advocate and politician Kapil Sibal said the EC should be kept out of this matter as it is an economic and political issue. "Let there be a debate in Parliament," Sibal suggested. PDP Bill junked... Various industry stakeholders are disappointed. "We suspect a lack of agreement between two factions within the government has led to the scrapping of the Bill," a person familiar with the matter said. He said: "One faction is pushing for a specific personal data protection Bill and another is pitching for a broad-based one." Amol Kulkarni, director (research), CUTS International, said: "This is a setback not only for big tech or the corporate world but also for individuals and consumers and privacy-first organisations that had worked hard on engaging with the government and consumers and other stakeholders." Some large tech firms are in wait-and-watch mode. "It's like going back to the drawing-board," said Rama Vedashree, chief executive officer, Data Security Council of India. Seeing the developments since Justice Srikrishna submitted his report in 2018, this outcome was a given, she said. A lot of time and effort has been invested in the past five years, and "we need to expedite enacting a comprehensive data privacy law in consultation with industry".
